His first conspicuous public service was as a member of the Now York Assembly, in 1877, when he distinguished himself by his zeal against the liquor interest. After serving for a time as County Judgo, he was the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, and was deleated, it is eaid, because of his prohibition record. On M. Greyy's succeeding to the Presidency of the Republic, M. Ferry became Minister of Pablic Instruction. Ferry completely reorganized the educational laws and induced Parliament to pass a law whereby all Jesuits and other members of unrecognized religious orders in France were probibited under criminal pensities of teaching in any kind of school throughout the sountry. In 1880 the Ministry was reconstitued under the Premiership of M. Ferry. The next year his administration was forced to resign in consequence of the public outery against their policy in regard to the expedition to Tunis. Two years later he again became Prime Minister and immediately undertook the invasion of Tonquin. After remaining in office about twenty months he was forced to resign in the face of the storm of public indignation created by repeated diseaster in Tonquin. M. Ferry is a Protectant. Girls Had Dolls in Pharaoh's Time.

Gits Hast Dells in Pharach's Time.

Phicodophia Time.

Dolls have amused girls for ages and seem to have been well known in the days of the Pharachs; for, in the tombs of ancient Egypt, figures of painted wood, of terra-cotts, of ivory and of rags have been found whose limbs were made movable for the delight of children. It is quite probable that Pharach's daughter threw saids a mimic child for the real baby which she discovered in the famous bullrush basket. In the tembs of Etturia—by the way, where was Etruria?—similar toys have been discovered; they were spread in the East, and in Ohina, as well as in India, moyable figures were made to spread in the East, and in China, as well as in India, movable figures were made to act from time immemorial by hand and on strings, or as shadows behind a curtain. The ancient Greeks were experts in the manufacture of puppets, including wax dolls, and several of their poets allude to offerings of dolls to Artemis and Aphrodite made by maidens before their marriage.

Jules F. C. Yerry, Wounded in the Lobby of the Chamber of Deputtes, Paris.

The leading Reputtlean statesman of France, Jules Francis Camille Ferry, lies ill from pistel wounds inflicted by a man whose true name is Herckleim, and who seems to be cut after the Guitcau pattern. Ferry's wounds have restored to him popularity, from his being, since the expedition to Tonquin, the meet importance of the Opportunists, formerly Gambelta's party, whose characteristic policy is to effect desired reforms at the opportune, which may not be the earliest, time. The Radicals hate Ferry, whose career is that of a man of decided convictions, cool and cautious in action, and accordingly far fror being the typical Frenchman.

He was born at St. Die, in the Vosges, April 5, 1832, and was admitted to the bar in Paris in 1854. Condemned in the famous "Trial of the Thirteen" in 1864 for his opposition to the Empero, he joined the staff of the Temps in 1865, and won new laurels as a journalist. In 1809 he was elected to the Corps of Legislatif and took his seat with the members of the Left. He voted against the war with Pruesia. At the Revolution of September 4, 1870, he was appointed a member of the Government of the National Defense. He was the prime instrument in driving the rioters from the Holed de Ville during the Communal insurrection of October 31. Precident Thiers nominated him for Prefect in the Seine, but he resigned in ten days, so great was the opposition to him, they ent as Minister to Athens in 1872.
